The house of commons spent Wednesday afternoon in discussing the vote of $2,000 for Father Lacombe's half-breed relief. It was argued that the relief asked for was unnecessary and should not be given to the half-breeds and that it was dangerous to make a precedent by such a vote. The vote, however, passed.

G. J. KINSKID is in receipt of another letter from John Stewart, C. E., of Hochelaga, in which Mr. Stewart states that he leaves on the 1st for Edmonton and expects to arrive on Friday (to-morrow) night with five men to arrange for receiving and placing the bridge superstructure. They will bring machinery to do the riveting and all hoisting will be done by steam.

The police are looking for a man named Frank Shawlow. Shawlow came here from Soran, N. D., during the Klondike rush and was employed for a time by Ross Bros. Afterwards he was out through the Galician settlements interpreting for a machine agent and it is claimed that he then induced a Galician to cash for him a $50 Confederate bill. He was also engaged to a German girl in town and on the pretext of buying furniture for their home borrowed all the money he had, some $45. After this he decamped, going south on Saturday's train. The police were informed on Tuesday and telegrams sent to different points to intercept him, as yet without result.

A KLONDIKE Nugget, of the 16th July, just to hand, announces the arrival at Dawson of eight prospectors who went in by the Prince Albert-Mackenzie river route and who reached Dawson with the same boat they started with. Their names are: Geo. Dougan, James M. Alfred E. G. W. Brownlow, Jas. Wallwork, Chas. Fowler, Hugh Stevens, and Henry Jackson. They wintered at Destruction City, on Rat river, with 110 others all bound for Klondike. In the spring they portaged to Bell river where they rigged one of their boats with a stern paddle wheel and an eight horse power boiler and engine which they had brought with them. They set down the Bell to the Porcupine and thence to the Yukon, which they reached at Fort Yukon. From there they steamed up to Dawson. The Chas. Fowler mentioned is probably Chas. Fowler of Edmonton.

J. H. PICARD, of Larue & Picard, returned from Lesser Slave lake yesterday, where he had been for some months looking over the firm's branch store there. He was accompanied by Messrs. Tyeen and Rockford, who went in by Ashcroft last year and came out by the Peace. They have secured a claim which they are satisfied will turn out well. Mr. Picard brings in a small consignment of fur and reports that fur was a poor catch at the lake this year. Business has resumed its normal condition now that the scrip has been issued and sold, $90 being the ruling price for scrip. There were no Indians at St. John to meet the treaty commissioners and only a few at Dunegan. Those who were there received full rations for the time they had waited, and were thoroughly satisfied. At the Crossing, on the way up, the scrip commissioners had some unsatisfactory controversy with the natives and only eleven scrip were issued. The commissioners went on up the river and will issue the balance of the scrip on their return provided the half-breeds have then arrived at a conclusion as to what they want.

JACQUES CARTIER BANQUE; SUSPENDS. MONTREAL, July 31.—A heavy run began on the Jacques Cartier Banque this morning, owing, no doubt to the suspension of the Bank of Ville Marie. The directors met this afternoon to consider the situation and after deliberating until eight o'clock issued the following statement: To the shareholders and depositors of La Banque Jacques Cartier: The unhappy agitation which was aroused on the occasion of the closing of Le Banque Ville Marie has ended by directing an unjustifiable movement against La Banque Jacques Cartier. The directors and managers have done all that was humanly possible to breast the storm, but as the panic persists in spite of their haste to respond to all demands and as it is impossible to realize immediately the assets in hand, we believe it our duty to suspend temporarily in order to permit us to realize on our assets. (Signed) Alphonse Desjardins, president.

The worst run was on the St. Jean Baptiste branch on Upper St. Lawrence street, where there is a large artisan population, and although several extra clerks were transferred, there was a crowd at the wicket all day. In all $200,000 was paid out at different branches. It is generally believed that the bank is in a thoroughly sound condition. On the stock exchange this morning the stock of the bank dropped from 110 to 65.

The news came as a great surprise to the officials of the branch here. The first instructions were to suspend payment, followed shortly after by instructions to open to receive payment of notes. J. E. Laurencelle, manager of the local branch, was seen and in reply to an inquiry stated that he was not only sure that all depositors would be fully protected in any event, but he had strong hopes of the bank opening again for business in a few days. It was not at all in the nature of a failure but merely a temporary suspension of payment such as is likely to be forced on any bank if subjected to a sudden and unexpected run. The bank's last statement showed a very flourishing condition of affairs. By law all banks have the right to suspend payment for 90 days without forfeiting their charter. Mr. Laurencelle was very grateful for the sympathy and consideration shown the officials by their customers.

The following, taken from the Free Press, shows the financial standing of the bank: The Banque Jacques Cartier has an authorized capital of $500,000; capital subscribed, $500,000; capital paid up, $500,000; amount of rest or reserve fund, $265,000; last dividend declared, 6 per cent.; notes in circulation, $473,081; balance due the Dominion government, $17,813; balance due to provincial governments, $135,000; deposits by the public, payable on demand, $774,327; deposits by the public, payable after notice, or on a fixed day, $3,151,319; total liabilities, $4,664,898; specie, $37,381; Dominion notes, $271,971; deposits with the Dominion government as security on note circulation, $24,000; notes of and cheques on other banks, $221,607; deposits payable on demand with other banks, $3,539; balances due from other banks and agencies, $12,383; $23,361 and $891; Dominion government debentures or stocks, $121,000; Canadian municipal and other securities, $295,868; call loan or bonds and stocks, $347,942; current loans, $3,836,016; overdue debts, $42,855; real estate, $30,405; mortgages or real estate sold by the bank, $37,940; bank premises, $130,000; other assets, $43,781; total assets, $5,480,556.

IMMIGRATION.

Speech by Frank Oliver, M. P., on the vote of $100,000 for salaries of immigration officials, House of Commons, July 26th.
From Hansard.

Mr. Speaker. As representing probably one-sixth of the area which is affected by the immigration vote, and as representing the electoral district to which most of the immigration is now tending, I would ask the indulgence of the house for a short while. I call the attention of the house to the large vote for immigration, and the consequent necessity for understanding what results we are striving to obtain by the expenditure of that money. To begin with, it would be well to divide our immigration work into two parts, first, that part which we consider valuable enough to warrant us in paying out a large amount of money in respect of; and second that part which we do not consider sufficiently desirable to warrant us in expending any considerable amount of money upon it. It is, or should be, thoroughly understood, that there are these two divisions. We send a large number of agents to Great Britain and to the United States and we pay them considerable salaries, because we believe it to be in the highest degree desirable to get immigrants from these countries. We spend a large amount of money, not for the purpose of getting immigrants, but for the purpose of getting desirable and valuable immigrants. But the results we have achieved from that expenditure in actual heads of population received, is not very much greater than that which we have received without, so it appears, a serious expenditure of money. There is a flow of immigration towards us without any considerable expenditure, and it is that phase of our immigration which I propose particularly to discuss. I take the liberty of doing so, because the district which I represent, has been most favored by this particular class of immigrants. I am probably more familiar personally with this matter than any other member of the house, and therefore, I may be excused for speaking with special reference to it. It does not seem to me to be a fair calculation to say that we have received 10,000 immigrants in a year, and have spent $200,000 or $300,000 to get them, when half of these immigrants came of their own volition and without any serious expenditure on our part to get them.

There is a question as to the desirability of these people coming here at all. I wish to speak, not from the point of view of the government of the day, nor from the point of the opposition of the day. I wish to be understood, not as making a political harangue, nor questioning any motive or policy in any way, shape or manner; but I stand here as the representative of the people of a large part of the Northwest Territories, and I wish to place before the house the views of those people in regard to this question, which so intimately concerns them. In arriving at their standpoint, or in attempting to arrive at it, and to find out whether there is the correct standpoint or not, I will ask the house, what is the primary object of inducing immigration? I believe I am in accord with a large majority of the settlers throughout the Northwest when I say, that the primary object is not simply to produce railroad traffic, but that it is for the purpose of building up a kindred, and higher, and better civilization in that country. This may not sound practical to some members of this house. We have heard other reasons given; but speaking for the people who are on the ground, I say that the settler of the Northwest has an ambition other than simply to raise so many thousands of bushels of grain that a railway company may get freight on it, or that a merchant may make a profit in handling it. The ambition of the settlers of the Northwest Territories is not to be merely hewers of wood or drawers of water for any corporation, or association, or class of the community. They are there as individual citizens of this country with ambitions just as high and with feelings just as delicate as those of any other class of the community, and perhaps a little more so. The settler who goes into the Northwest Territories has the ambition to build up there a pleasant and satisfactory home for himself and for his children after him; to build up civilization and to take part in the general progress of the community. He raises the wheat, not as an end, but as means; and he depends for his success in achieving progress and civilization upon the efforts of his neighbors as well as upon his own efforts. If his neighbors are not like-minded with himself, if his neighbors are not of a progressive instinct, if they are not of a civilized tendency, then the progressive and advancing and prosperous settler of the Northwest Territories is handicapped by association with those who are not progressive, and, therefore, are not so prosperous, nor so productive of prosperity.

By putting into the Northwest a class of people who are not progressive, whose ambition is not civilization, who are handicapping the settlers who are there; whose ambition is to build up a civilized and prosperous country, such as you see around you here to-day—the result, not of accident, or chance, or the force of circumstances, but the result of the application of energy, intelligence, enterprise, and every other quality that goes to make a man or a nation. You cannot have established a progressive civilization in the Northwest without these qualities in the men who are there, any more than you could have had it here. This country is civilized, is progressive, is great, by reason of the people who inhabit it. There are other countries which are far ahead of Canada in natural advantages, but which are not the equals of Canada, in civilization, or progress, or in anything that goes to make the greatness and blessedness of a nation. It is the people who make the country—who are the country. Transplant to the Northwest people from such a country—a country that is ahead of Canada in natural resources, but is far behind it in civilization and prosperity; for the one goes with the other—and you put them as a collar around the neck of your civilized and progressive settlers. You cannot expect to see that progress which you would have, if the country were inhabited entirely by more highly civilized people. The mere fact of transplanting a man from one location to another does not change his nature. You see all the difference possible between one settlement here and another settlement there, simply because there is a different class of people in the one from what there is in the other. Therefore, if you transplant people who are behind in civilization, who have no ideas in regard to our system of government or our social life, who have no ambitions such we have, who are aliens in race and in every other respect, can you expect your country to be built up as it would be if you had other and better men in it? I say you cannot reasonably expect it; and you are handicapping the good men you have there by putting such a class of settlers among them.

One hon. gentleman says that they will be laborers for the other settlers. If there is a field for the employment of the labor of those men, let those who represent that field speak for it; let them demand that the efforts of the immigration department be put forth in order to supply the demand. If Ontario wants these people, by all means let Ontario have them. I am not speaking for Ontario; but I do claim to speak for the part of the Northwest which I have the honor to represent, and I say that we have not a sufficient field for the employment of their labor there, not as laborers for the rest of the community, but as a danger to our social system, our municipal institutions and our general progress. This is why we desire to call the attention of the government and of the house to the undesirability of allowing this immigration to continue.

It is quite common to hear it said: Oh, there are millions of acres in the Northwest; there is plenty of room there for everybody. Let me tell the house that the Northwest is not limitless. It is very nearly as far from Quebec or Windsor as it is from Winnipeg to Calgary, which is the length of the Northwest. But the question is not one of area so much as of population. There is in the Northwest Territories to-day a population of possibly 200,000; and the success of our institutions in that country and its general prosperity depend upon the maintenance of the supremacy of a civilizing and directing influence in that country. It would be a very simple matter to overcome any particular settlement in the Northwest by a foreign population. Every settlement in that country stands in danger from that influx of population, if it is not checked. The whole of the Northwest Territories stands in danger; and if that element once gets control, as it necessarily must wherever it forms a majority, then where is your control of those Northwest Territories, and where is your hope for the progress and prosperity of that country? Remember, these people have to be considered not as beasts of burden but as citizens; they have just the same rights as you or any one else, and they have to be considered as a power in the body politic. They are something more than merely raisers of wheat. They become our governors and rulers; they must necessarily be so; it is only right that they should be. Therefore, I say, we should view this matter with a careful eye, and see that we do not get too much even of a good thing, if it is a good thing.

It is said: Look at the example of the United States; there is a country which has grown great by reason of opening its doors wide to the world. Well, let us see. The United States had a population of over 30,000,000 before the general influx of continental European population began.

We, in Canada, have a population of possibly 5,000,000. There was no possibility of the original population of the United States being overwhelmed by the influx of foreigners from Europe. But there is every possibility of the population of north-western Canada being overwhelmed. We must not forget the difference in our situations; and we must not forget that, after an experience of many years of the open door to world-wide immigration, the United States saw their mistake, and to a very great extent shut the door. Now, if the example of the United States was good at one time, why is it not good now? Surely, the more mature judgment of the United States is as valuable to us as the less mature. If a nation of sixty or seventy millions finds it necessary to shut the door to indiscriminate immigration, is it not more necessary for a country of five millions, especially when the part of the country affected, in which these people will have largely sovereign powers, numbers only half a million, or scarcely that?

SILVER WEDDING AT STONY PLAIN.

The occurrence of the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. F. Sieb, Stony Plain, on the 28th inst., was the occasion of a very merry celebration. Not only did the host and hostess enjoy themselves, but some eighty or more of their friends were made very happy by the event. The host, owing to the congratulations showered upon him, wore a very radiant smile, probably additionally brightened by the expectation of nine or ten thousand bushels of grain. The hostess equally happy decked her table with a sumptuous repast. The guests after doing ample justice at the board, retired to a large and commodious dancing hall, especially fitted for the occasion, where they enjoyed themselves till after sunrise, when after partaking of refreshments they dispersed, with many hearty good wishes for their host and hostess.

FROM THE FAR NORTH.

Eighteen returning prospectors arrived in town on Tuesday from the Liard and Mackenzie rivers, the advance guard of over a hundred others who will follow when the H. B. Co's boats come out. The Wrigley left Simpson on the 20th June for Great Slave with about 60 Klondikers on board. The majority were from Simpson and Norman and the remainder from the Liard and Gravel rivers, where they had been wintering. On arriving at Slave lake the passengers disembarked and the Wrigley returned down the Mackenzie to Peel river to bring up all those who wintered in that vicinity and who desired to return. Of her passengers left at the lake eighteen continued to the Landing with four canoes and the balance went over to visit the claims staked on the north shore of the lake. They will come on up with the other passengers when the Wrigley returns from the Peel.

Of those who came up on the Wrigley three came from Black Mud river on the upper Liard, 110 miles from the Dease, where they had wintered. Their names are: Wm. C. Smith, of Selkirk, Man.; John Grant, of Toronto, and Frank Bastion, of St. Albert. About 100 men wintered above them, on the Brule portage, continuing on through this spring. About ten men died on the Liard from scurvy and accident. An old man named Grieves died from scurvy. An unknown man was drowned in Toad river. Another, a young man, also unknown, died of scurvy. A body came down the Liard this spring, frozen to an ice floe, and though a number of men tried to get to it they were unsuccessful. A Wisconsin man was drowned at Cranberry rapids. A man named Turney died of scurvy. An old man died near Fort Halkett. He had both feet frozen necessitating amputation, and did not survive the operation. "Old Pete," a Swede, who it is claimed formerly mined on the river here, was accidentally shot dead by L'Chappelle, of St. Albert, who came out with Klutche. Pete was sitting in his cabin together with a number of others, when L'Chappelle picked up a revolver. The weapon was a hammerless one and was accidentally discharged, the bullet striking Pete in the side of the head, causing instant death. Among the parties wintering on the upper Liard were: A. D. Osborne, John Russell and J. Kenealey, Edmonton; Ross and Rosewell, Sudbury, Ont.; W. Drain, Prince Albert, and Falkenberg, who spent the winter before last at Grand Rapids. Near the mouth of the Nelson Clatworthy and two companions wintered. He was endeavoring to push on up the Liard. Maloney, his former partner, had frozen his feet and is at Great Slave lake on his way back. Grant, Bastion and Smith left their winter camp in January on their way back to Edmonton, pulling their outfit on toboggans to Sayetown, below the Devil's portage.

Among the eighteen who reached town are: Carmichael, Sudbury, Ont.; Geddes, Ont.; Ritchie and son, Poplar Point, Man.; J. Roe, Rapid City, Man.; R. Hunter, Hamilton; Jos. and Gus. Schuster, Chicago; W. Schmidt, New York; McOlellan, Winchester, N. H.; Wm. G. Smith, Selkirk; Smith and Hesley, Man.; John Stetson, Princetown, Ill.; and Wood, Delaware.

MAIN'S CIRCUS.

Walter L. Main's Circus, one of the biggest on the road, will arrive in Strathcona on Monday the 14th, with their special train, and give a performance in the afternoon. Only one performance is advertised. The programme is the usual one of trick riding, trapeze work, dancing etc., with side show attractions including among others the man eight feet in height, and the "missing link" wife. Of the quality of the entertainment provided the Winnipeg Telegram says: There have been large and varied shows in Winnipeg, good shows, bad shows, and shows of all kinds, but there has never been one that drew so many Winnipeggers from their homes as did the Walter L. Main circus last night.
Fully 7,000 people packed the immense canvas covered arena, and the sporting proclivities of the crowd were not subdued by the character of the performance, which elicited round after round of enthusiastic applause. Winnipeg has always had the reputation of appreciating a good thing, and patronizing it generously, and it was a bumper one and went away thoroughly pleased with the performance from beginning to end.

MORE RAILWAY RUMOURS.

Ottawa, July 27.—A bold scheme of supplying the Dominion with another trans-continental railway is now on the taps. The object MacKenzie & Mann have in view, it is frankly stated, will be to attain this object, and no secret is made that the lines and extensions constructed and proposed by this combination are designed to form links in this great scheme. It is said that the line will ultimately run through the Yellowhead pass and across the mountains to Fort Simpson. It is said that the line around the north shore of Lake Superior will be run some 40 or 50 miles back from the lake. It is being asserted that the country in that district is level, fertile and prolific in natural resources.

THE END IN SIGHT.

Ottawa, July 28.—Prorogation will take place at the end of next week.
When the house met this forenoon Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he had a conference with the leader of the opposition yesterday and that as Sir Charles leaves for England shortly it was arranged to close parliament as early as possible. He said there was no reason why prorogation should not be reached towards the end of next week. To facilitate the work of the session, he agreed with his honorable friend to drop the senate resolutions for the present session. He also consented to let the criminal code bill from the senate stand over. Sir Charles Tupper stated that he would be glad to do anything in his power to bring about prorogation by the end of the week.

The Golden Era: Dr. Taylor has been requested by the provincial government of British Columbia to go to Tete Jaune Cache and hold a post mortem examination on the body of Alexander Macaulay, who was mardered there last month by Hughes. Messrs Price and Evans will accompany the Doctor.
The party will start on Monday. Price brought out Mrs. Macaulay, and her two children and they are now at Donald to await the trial.
